APPLE POEMS INDEX

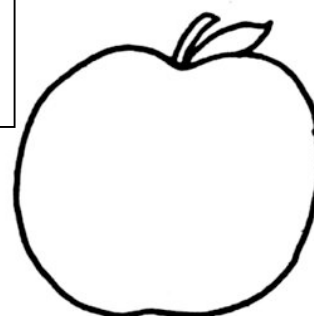

I Went to the Orchard.

I Planted a Seed.

Apples, Apples.

Baker, Baker.

The Farmer's Stand.

I Went To The Orchard

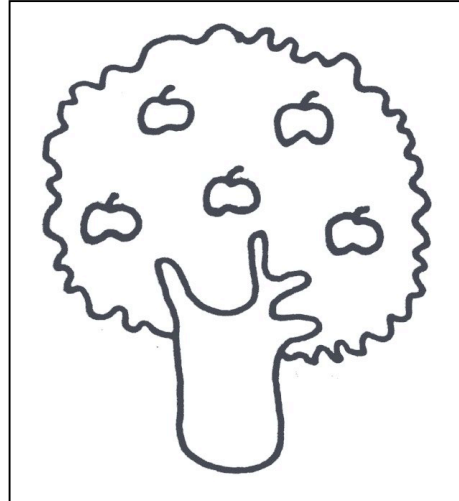

I went to the orchard
And what did I see?
A big red apple,
On an apple tree.

The wind came "whoosh"
And blew all around,
And then the red apple,
Fell to the ground.

I picked up the apple,
And took a bite.
Mmmmm, it was good,
So juicy and white.

I ate and I ate,
And I ate it all up.
But I saved the seeds
In my little green cup.

I Planted Some Seeds

I planted some seeds,
And soon they did sprout,
With little green leaves
That wiggled about.
I watered the plants,
In the flower bed;
And 12 little flowers
Popped out their heads.

APPLES, APPLES

Apples, apples,
Little red apples,
On the apple tree.
Apples, apples,
Little red apples,
Hanging quietly.
Then the wind goes,
"Whoosh, whoosh,
whoosh,"
Through the apple tree,
And, down, down, down,
Some apples fall,
1 and 2 and 3.

The Farmer's Stand

At the farmer's stand,
Apples are so sweet.
Beans are packed in baskets,
By the peas and beets.
Carrots are in bunches.
Cider's in the jug;
Eggs are by the dozen,
Pumpkins must be lugged.
Spinach greens are fresh,
The melons big & fat;
Tomatoes were just picked;
Yummy, I like that!
